Auto Production

Total August production on all makes of cars was about 5 per cent. larger than the same month last year. The first nine months of 1929 exceeded the entire 1928 production. The total production for the year is now expected to reach 6,000,000 as compared with 4,601,000 in 1928.

1. Ford continues to be the chief sustaining factor in Auto Production.
2. Ford is responsible for over 80 per cent. of the increase in the total output of all makes this year.
3. Ford output in August reached a new high monthly record for the Model "A".
4. Ford produced 206,000 cars in August as against 197,000 in July and 101,000 in August last year.
5. Nearest competitor has been compelled to curtail production somewhat, as a result of Ford popularity. Their August production was 110,000, or only 53.4 per cent of the Ford output. In other words the time has now come when practically two Ford Cars are sold to one of the nearest competitor.

ITEMS PICKED UP AROUND THE CLUB

Did we give you the right tip on the Cowie-Ratnwell fight? Don't blame us if you didn't read this column and benefit financially.

Well, were you at the "smoker"? Everybody of note was there, and some not so famous.

One of the boys driving home in the dark met a cat, thought it was another car running into him and went in the ditch. Oh well, those things do happen.

Thank heaven Uncle has no more kids to educate. We are badly bent now.

Tex has gone to the Coast and when he meets the lunch we bet there will be "whoopie".

Our old friend Jack is sporting a new car. Wonder will he have a christening for it? It's about time we had another party out in the "great alone".

Lots of hockey material in town now. Hurry up you hockey promoters and let's go.

Of course everyone will wear a poppy on Armistice Day. The Women's Institute are again handling the flower of remembrance, and the distribution could not be in more capable hands.

So the conqueror of Scotty Bakster won a bride as well as his fight. Here's wishing you all the good things in life Louis.

Hubby—"I've made up my mind to stay in tonight." Wifey—"And I have made up my mind to go out tonight." Ain't it the truth.

Paddy had a lot of good stories last Wednesday, but as you have all heard them we will refrain. You know old top this is a great F. J.

Will friends please remember November 8th as the date of the annual fowl supper at Berrywater school.

Mr. Rogers of Lethbridge, who is associated with the firm of J. M. Anderson & Co., was a business visitor in town on Tuesday.

It is reported the Alberta Road Commissioner was in town recently, and stated the new road would run through town on the old main road to Vulcan.—Champion Chronicle.

ARMISTICE BALL

The "Vets" are again to the fore with their annual Armistice ball which will be staged in the Oddfellows' hall on Monday, November 11th (Armistice Day). They have been fortunate in securing the services of the Arrow orchestra from Calgary. As is usual with "Vets" entertainments, nothing will be left undone to ensure that their annual ball will be the outstanding social function of the season. The entering for the supper will be in the hands of a committee of local ladies who have promised their services to the boys for this occasion. A bumper crowd is being looked for and every facility for enjoyment will be at their disposal.

Mr. Alf Sales is again at work after his recent illness.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY DAY AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

The Rally Day program at the Church of Christ was in every way a wonderful success. Everyone enjoyed the inspirational address so ably presented by J. N. Jenkins, taking as his theme Rally Day, he gave us a word picture of God throughout the ages endeavoring, by the agency of man, to rally his children together on such occasions as the Passover, the great Jewish memorial feast, and to look to Christ, God's most precious gift to the world and remembering his command not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together on the first day of the week in memory of him. Mr. Jenkins impressed the fact that it was every Christian's duty to rally their loved ones and friends to the house of worship and to be diligent in the face of duty in encouraging the leaders and teachers in the great work of bringing about world peace and unity. He referred to two of our great men of today, Ramsay MacDonald and Calvin Coolidge. In his closing remarks, reference was made to the 17th chapter of John's gospel, Jesus' intercessory prayer, pleading for the unity of all of God's children.

Visiting brethren and friends from Broadway, Richmond Hill and Kirkdale entered into the program with a splendid spirit of fellowship with Homer Montgomery acting as chairman.

The musical numbers were well rendered and were interspersed with congregational singing followed by several short addresses in response to the address of welcome.

The morning service closed with a short period of bible study. Topics: "Useful Work a Christian's Duty," and needless to say 137 souls that rallied together came to the realization that all had been blessed in their efforts.

Brother Jenkins spoke to a large audience in the evening. His subject was the "Restoration Movement." Our Rally Day closed by everyone extending to this worthy leader, expressions of appreciation for his labors among us.

Sad Fatality Occurs at Local Gravel Pit

Alex. MacRae of Flaxcombe, Sask., met his death on Saturday while working for C. Steiner in a gravel pit twelve miles north-west of Vulcan. Deceased was digging sand when a landslide took place which entombed him, and when those on the spot succeeded in removing him, he was dead. Alex had worked for Mr. Steiner for about a year, and had been in this district five or six years in various capacities in each of which he had given satisfaction, and was well and favorably known to many here who much regret his untimely demise. He was 25 years of age. Besides the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Dan MacRae, he leaves four brothers and two sisters to mourn his loss, and to them much sympathy is extended. The funeral took place on Tuesday from the United Church, Rev. J. N. Branton officiating. Pall bearers were Messrs. CHEVROLET SIXES

Sold this year as any other six at any price in any year!

NO other six-cylinder car has ever earned, in any year, one-third the public acceptance... one-third the volume of sales... which have been bestowed upon Chevrolet Six during the nine months since its introduction.

This tremendous public acceptance is due to three outstanding facts. To the fact that Chevrolet offered, for the first time in history, a six at the price of a four... To the superb standard of quality in Chevrolet's design, material and workmanship. And to the new, greater performance abilities that Chevrolet Six provided.

Chevrolet Six was four years old in experiment, in research, in testing, in proving... before the first Chevrolet Six was placed in the hands of its owner. And that owner... like the million and a quarter owners who followed his example... SOLD HIMSELF on the Chevrolet he bought... on the road, behind the wheel. Why not let us place a Chevrolet Six at your disposal... and form your own opinion of its value.

OF GREAT MOMENT

Probably no event within recent years has carried more significance to Canadians than the visit of Premier Ramsay MacDonald to Washington. The splendid reception accorded him by representative American bodies, the dignity and candor in his diplomatic message and the evident unanimity of purpose actuating himself and President Hoover, have been followed with intense interest throughout Canada.

Our Dominion occupied a delicate position between Britain and United States. Her allegiance to Britain is on an unswerving mother-and-daughter basis. On the other hand for a hundred years or more, ties have been weaving which knit her closely with United States. Every generation of the old Canadian families has seen members of these families drifting to the south. In the course of years, these have become American citizens. Similarly many of our own leading citizens have come originally from across the border. This constant interplay has brought a great mutual understanding and a realization that the fundamental ideals of the two countries are much similar.

It is of the greatest importance to Canada that the two English-speaking nations to whom she is so strongly bound, should unite in harmony of thought and action for the general welfare of mankind. The success of Premier MacDonald's mission in every regard, has exceeded all hopes, and has brought great appreciation of the ability of the British leader, to the Canadian people.

PUBLIC DOESN'T SEE IT

How many people receive, or let alone read, The Alberta Gazette in this province. It is an official publication with a very limited circulation and that confined to inner circles and a few legal offices. Not many, yet the government in the past few years have been content to advertise important sales in that publication and let it go at that. It's a poor business policy and not fair to the newspaper publishers or to the average citizen. Sale of land by taxes, sale of impounded animals, etc., should be advertised in the local newspaper published nearest to the place of sale.

SHOULD BE PUBLISHED

Within the last few days a number of instances have occurred in Turner Valley district, where motor drivers have been brought into court and fined for violations of the vehicle act of which they were utterly ignorant. No advance information had been given regarding these regulations and it came as a surprise to several to learn that they were not observing rules.

No criticism can be levelled at the magistrates, who have the regulations before them and must levy fines according to the law. But the government is distinctly at fault in not publishing in newspapers any new regulations before putting them into force. No doubt all clauses of the Vehicle Act are designed to protect the public, and wisely so. But the public should at least be notified in business like way that such clauses are about to be enforced.

A man who is travelling along feeling that he is being a fairly good citizen receives an unpleasant shock both to his self respect and his pocketbook, when a new regulation slips up on him and drags him into court. It is not right that people should learn many of the motor laws of the province, only from reading the police court columns.

A FINE TRIBUTE

Nothing can do more to cement friendships among former enemies than a tribute like that paid by Ramsay MacDonald, premier of Great Britain, on the floor of the United States Senate to the late Gustav Stresemann, the great German Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the following words: "Many a story could I tell you, many a picture I could paint to you, of that quiet, steady heroic man, standing surrounded by enmity, not only abroad, but at home determined to play a perfectly straight game, determined to carry into practice the proverb that he who does not respect himself is respected by nobody else. I think I might, here on this platform of this Senate, in this way, paying my tribute to my dead dear friend, regard it as laying a wreath on his tomb."

DRESS REFORM

An advocate of dress reform in dress reform appears. Upon a pleasant day in June With dress just to her knees. This modern dress of fashion new And silken hose attention drew Sister woman gaze with askance eye Insinuating My, Oh My. The advocate of dress reform A new coupe invention. Without the least prevention Hops nimbly in a motor car Her sisters argue on summer days Short dresses are contagious, We'll never stoop to wear the like Because they are outrageous.

WINDBREAKS HELP

It has been a frequent comment in the district, that this year the windbreaks protecting rural gardens have proved of great value. This has been our first dry season for some time, and it is in periods of drought that the full benefits of tree planting may be reaped. Prairie drought is something to be dreaded, and while it is not pretended that even the widespread planting of trees will abolish fears of drought, yet the value of windbreaks, quite outside aesthetic qualities, has this year been proved.

With the advent of a mildly dry season, a new interest in forestation is being taken on the prairie. Trees have the effect of moderately reducing the temperature of air and soil, rendering the climate more equable. They increase the humidity of the air and reduce evaporation. They help regulate the water supply making stream flow continuous. They conserve moisture in the soil. They provide shelter for man and beast.

Many a splendid garden has this fall been gathered from droughty prairie land, simply because of the protecting windbreaks.

STYLES STARTLE

With these new style hats that women are wearing this season, we are recognizing a number of faces that we haven't seen on the streets for several years, all because the hats show an almost indecent exposure. Just as we had grown used to guessing at identities, through the evidence of half of one per cent. of one eye, a half portion of nose and a small slice of mouth, styles have suddenly changed. Hats have shot back, revealing yards of glistening forehead, complete sets of eyes and full size nose. It is quite startling to get such an eyeful. When the women took to wearing their hats pulled down, apparently for purposes of concealment, it took a long time to convince us that they were quite respectable wives and mothers, guileless of any special dark secrets. But this new style makes them look as if they had arrived unexpectedly on a very high wind and hadn't got over the surprise of it.

MOTORIST AND CHILD

Ordinary traffic rules are not sufficient in passing children's play quarters. Nine times out of ten when a child is knocked down by a car, it is the child's fault. He darts suddenly from some unseen point and is struck all in the space of a moment.

But the assurance that the accident was not his fault, is little comfort to the motorist who is so unfortunate as to strike a child, and for the driver's future peace of mind, he is well advised to double his precautions in passing children. Not only should the horn be sounded but brakes should be applied till the danger zone is passed. The cost in time is very little and no business is pressing enough to jeopardize a child's life. The motorist should add to his driving code "Slow down for children" and "take unexpected corners slowly."

NO NEED TO WORRY

Sandy McPherson was travelling to Glasgow, and on the way he felt thirsty, so he took out a bottle and drew the cork. Just as he was about to take a taste, a fellow passenger in clerical garb addressed him: "Excuse me, sir, but I am 65 years of age, and I have never tasted a drop of whiskey!"

"Donna worry yersel," said Sandy; "ye are na gaing to start the noo."

A huge man, bursting with anger crashed into the editor's office and shouted: "My name is John J. O'Rourke. Yesterday your paper printed an article about me, calling me a thief, robber, a blackleg, a drunken sot, a cheat, a murderer and a lot of other things. Are you the man who wrote that article?" "I am," admitted the editor faintly as he prepared to make his escape. "Well," roared the big man, "I'm here to tell you that my middle letter is 'I' not 'J' and if you can't print my name correctly I wish you would please leave it out."

The airplane is entering into commerce every day in little ways which prove that in the future it will play a much greater part.

A BUSINESS FORCE

Advertising as a creative force in business long has received the support of the keenest, most aggressive and most successful manufacturers and merchants, and only the unenlightened—very few in number, regard advertising as an expense and not an investment. These few fail to realize that the chief benefit from advertising frequently is to create new business and not to take business from a competing concern. Moreover the non-advertiser often benefits from his competitor's advertising because publicity of a brand of paint, or automobiles, or toothpaste or any other article of merchandise tends to arouse in the consumer the desire for such goods, regardless of the particular brands.—Financial Post.

COMES HALLOWEEN

Halloween is rightly regarded as a time for fun, when rollicking spirits may walk abroad and find excuse for merriment. It comes just after the busiest season of the year and there is a natural tendency among energetic young people to "break loose" and have a real celebration. Too often there is nothing in the way of social activity planned for them and so they take matters into their own hands and not being possessed with mature minds, it is small wonder that they find crude ways of expressing themselves. How much better it would be if the leaders of the community took forethought and provided some form of social entertainment in the way of a party, hike, dance, etc. Then the spirit of merriment would be controlled and directed into wholesome channels.

"Well, you see," replied the farmer "some cows are born without horns and never have any; others shed theirs and still others we dehorn, while still others breeds aren't supposed to have horns at all. There are a lot of reasons why some cows don't have horns, but the big reason why that cow hasn't any horns is because she isn't a cow at all, she's a horse."

WEST PORT FILLED

Alberta Wheat Pouring Into Trembling at Vancouver

What practically amounts to an embargo on the movement of Alberta wheat west went into effect late Friday on Canadian Pacific lines as well as on the Canadian National Railways. The permit system was put into effect by the Canadian Pacific officials on account of the shortage of space in Vancouver terminals.

An embargo also was placed by Canadian National officials on the movement of grain to Prince Rupert which affects only the business of the Alberta Wheat Pool.

Officials stated that space in Vancouver terminals was now almost at a premium. The seven elevators at the Pacific coast terminals have a total storage capacity of 9,606,000 bushels. In elevators and on wheels of both railways moving to Vancouver Saturday, officials reported 8,790,600 bushels. This leaves only available space of 815,400 bushels.

Four boats were reported in Vancouver harbor Friday with a total carrying capacity of 500,000 bushels. Eleven more boats were reported due during October, which will relieve the congestion to some extent by the end of the month.

THE TABLES TURNED

Horses Being Run Down to Provide Meat for Foxes

A Washington D.C., correspondent writes that in Canada wild horses are being killed and sold to fox farmers for feed for their animals. For many centuries, it is pointed here, the horse was used with the hound to run down foxes. Now the tables have turned, and the fox is the favorite.

In a report to the department of commerce, Trade Commissioner J. Bartlett Richards, Winnipeg, says that the first consignment of 400 horses arrived from Alberta 10 days ago, and are being slaughtered at the rate of about fifty a day. It is claimed that some 4000 horses will be brought to Winnipeg for slaughtering altogether. A few of the best of them have been sold alive at $20 to $25 apiece but there is not much demand for them even at that price, as they are generally small and unfit for use.

Fox farms have ordinarily obtained offal and other waste products from abattoirs, but it is said that there is a shortage this year and there is, accordingly, a demand for horse flesh which sells at around 1 cent a pound. The hides are sold for about $5. There are a good many of these wild horses in the Alberta foothills and the ranchers there are glad to get rid of them as they are using up the grass which is needed by the cattle and of which there is said to be none too much this year, the Washington writer says.

IS NOT JUSTIFIED

Low Level of Oil Stocks is Not Due to Lack of Good News

Strange to say, production of oil and field development have nothing to do with the depression of oil stocks. The development activities in Alberta are proceeding in a most satisfactory manner and according to reports from various wells including Royalite, there is no justification for the low prices prevailing.

The Vanalta oil well is producing 61 barrels per 18 hours and the flow appears to increase.

Some of the news from Turner Valley and other Alberta oil fields is given as follows:

Mayland No. 1 is drilling in the limestone at a depth of considerably more than 200 feet.

Southwest Pete, and East Crest No. 1 wells are standing cemented in the lime and drilling will be resumed in the potential producing horizon in a short time.

British Dominion No. 2 well is drilling at a depth of more than 5030 feet in the pokerchip shales, just above the limestone, with about 1,000 feet of oil in the hole.

Home No. 4 is drilling steadily and believed to be very close to the lime.

Commonwealth Turner Valley is through the Dalhousie sands and drilling in the shale above the lime.

Associated is producing in two separators with unofficial reports that production is most satisfactory.

Home production is reported unofficially at a very high level.

ARGUE AND DEBATE

The many young people's organizations that exist in the town, afford a splendid opportunity, for youth to gain practice in debating and public speaking.

Not only is the individual given practice in speaking, but he learns often from bitter experience, that he must first have something to say before he can hope to hold his audience. He must study some definite subject, arrange his ideas coherently and with system. He must go farther and consider the other side of the subject under debate, in order to be prepared for rebuttal. Having perfect mastery of his subject, he must then go one step farther and learn to convince his audience.

The practice of debating is a rich field for young people, and if learned while they are young, will reward them bountifully on many occasions through life.

A FARMERS UTOPIA

Farmers in Ontario are Sitting Pretty no Matter Which Party Wins

If pre-election promises mean anything, the Ontario farmer is sitting pretty, whichever party comes into power. His future looks rosy, what with cheaper hydro, better educational facilities, improved secondary roads, more extensive markets. Premier Ferguson promises a hydro reduction in service charge from $4.55 a month (100 acre farm average rate) to $2.50 a month. In the matter of roads, he forecasts increased grants from the province to the municipalities, so that with the perfecting of the provincial highways, all secondary roads may be made serviceable.

In rural education, the suggestions of government aid for the extension of high school facilities in rural schools, and he holds strongly to his faith in township school boards rather than district boards.

Mr. Sinclair, Liberal, however, strikes more nearly the sentiments of the rural population when he opposes township boards. The majority of the country people feel that each school district is best fitted to deal with its own affairs, and centralization of power in this regard is unpopular. So also amongst many is the effort to carry on extension work in the public school. It is felt that this reacts unfavorably against junior grades.

The Liberal idea also suggests freeing municipalities from any cost in the provincial highways within their borders.

The Progressive platform, much similar to that of the Liberal stresses strongly greater promotion of Co-Operative Marketing.

Great emphasis is being laid by all three parties on the needs of the farmers. Just how much bait the farmer is taking will not be known till October 30.

BIG OIL PRODUCTION

Due to the fact that during a considerable part of the month Royalite No. 4 and Home No. 1 wells, two of the largest producers normally in Turner Valley, were off production due to "freezing," the deliveries reported to the Calgary refineries for September showed a decrease of 8,033 barrels from the August deliveries. The total deliveries to the Imperial and Regal refineries during September were 89,020 barrels.

Even despite the comparatively small production obtained from Home No. 1 and Royalite No. 4, the delivery figure for September is in excess of that for any month in 1929 with the exception of May, June and July. In April the total delivery figure amounted to only 69,207 barrels.

Home No. 1 delivery during September was with 3,624 barrels of naphtha, as compared with 19,707 barrels during August and 22,201 barrels during July. Royalite No. 4's September figure was 1,089 barrels, as compared with 7,901 barrels in August and 11,485 barrels in July.

If Royalite No. 4 and Home No. 1 had been on full production during the month, as at least, Home No. 1 now is, the figure for the month would have been considerably more than 100,000 barrels, creating a new Turner Valley record. There is every likelihood that the 100,000-barrel figure will be surpassed this month.

Recovery from the new Associated producer amounted to 1,412 barrels. This, however, gives no indication of its potential output, as only one separator was on the well previous to October 1, and no back pressure was applied. Only a few days of partial production was obtained.

PREMIER'S MESSAGE

On the evening of October 11, millions of people over Canada and United States and Britain, listened to the broadcasted message of Premier Ramsay MacDonald, as he spoke in New York at the subject of World Peace.

While Great Britain and United States had taken the best possible steps to protect themselves by declaring that there should be no declared war between them, "still" the premier "two nations cannot make the peace of the world." That is the reason for the coming of the five power conference.

"While the governments of countries may agree on peace, the people of these countries must change the furniture of their minds, casting out old antagonisms and replacing them with kindness."

Premier MacDonald gave in moving terms an idea of the sacrifice which naval disarmament means to the British. "In our case" he said, "the navy is the life of our people. We have built romance about it. We are a people of the sea. Europe is at our door. We have to import our food and a month's blockade would starve us out. Our navy is our life."

But there was no indecision in the Premier's declaration for peace. Fully aware that peace laid a nation open to certain risk, "I'll take the risk" he said.

New Diplomacy

In referring to the long planned meeting between President Hoover and himself, in the interest of international relations, the Premier continued, "There is an old illusion in some quarters, mostly remote, that if two statesmen get together and arrange things together, there must be something sinister in their hearts. These people are out of date. They have no conception of the new spirit of open diplomacy which is making up its mind to dominate the world. Men are coming together, not for the purpose of dividing the world into alliances and groups, but helping the world to a general agreement that will be universal. That was the spirit that brought Mr. Hoover and myself together to talk over affairs of mutual interest."

The U. S. Mission

Speaking directly on his mission to the United States, the British statesman said that there was no thought in his mind, or that of President Hoover that the two English-speaking nations should come together to the exclusion of other nations. In reaching an agreement on naval parity, so far as such an agreement could be reached without the action of other naval powers, Mr. MacDonald said that all United States and Great Britain had done was "To open the door of an international conference on naval disarmament, which for the first time in the history of the world gives prospect for a measure of success."

With the signing of the peace pact between the nations, the door has been closed on things of the past, and the nations may now devote themselves to working together for the peace of the world."

Manufacturing in Canada in the past thirty years has increased 700 per cent., according to the Canadian Government Information Bureau.

Gladstone V. Balderson, wheat farmer of Magrath, recently finished threshing his crop, which was all wheat and produced over 45 bushels per acre of No. 1 Marquis. At present prices this farm has produced an income of $62 to the acre this year.

The Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, owned and operated by the Ontario Government as a public utility, is now serving 500 municipalities and townships and about 500,000 consumers. It is distributing over 1,000,000 horse power and its total investments exceed $300,000,000.

J. H. Templer a youthful pilot at Winnipeg was killed while trying to make a landing.

A little girl ran into the house with a piece of wire which she had picked up in the street, and inquired of her sister what it was. Her sister looked at it blankly for a moment. "I don't know," she said; "go and ask mother." The mother thought hard for some moments but, at last, gave it up. "Go and ask grandma," she said. The little girl did as she was told. Grandma told her. It happened to be a hairpin.

CHILDREN ALMOST HATE CROSS, NERVOUS MOTHER

"My children almost hated me. I was so cross. Thanks to Vinol, my nervousness is all gone and we are happy again."—Mrs. T. Johnstone.
For 30 years doctors have prescribed Vinol because it contains important mineral elements of iron, calcium and cod liver oil. The very FIRST bottle brings sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Nervous, worn-out people are surprised how QUICK Vinol gives new life and pep! Tastes delicious.—Errett King, Druggist, Vulcan, Alta.

DISHONESTY SHOWN

Four Teachers' Certificates Cancelled For Cheating on Exams.

Wholesale and retail trafficking in and bartering of Department of Education examination papers last June in Edmonton and in a school district in close eastern proximity to Edmonton, has caused fifty pupils to lose their academic standing, either in whole or in part, according to the degree of their participation in the dishonest acts, according to an announcement made recently by Hon. Perren E. Baker, minister of education.

The unearthing of the original theft of papers and the tracing down of those culpable has been engaging the attention of government officials for the last three months and only within the last few days have investigations been brought to a conclusion, and a report made to the minister.

Coincident with the announcement of the barring of 50 pupils, the minister stated that last teaching year four teachers had been deprived of their certificates for dishonest acts in connection with examinations.

The suspicion of the authorities was first aroused by papers from pupils in the district in question attaining 100 per cent. in various subjects when their standing in tests throughout the year had been considerably below this mark.

The original theft took place in the school district near Edmonton, the name of which the minister declined to make public. A brother and sister obtained access to papers from their brother, the secretary of the district. Copies were made and the originals apparently returned.

One paper was sent to a cousin in Edmonton and thereafter there was trafficking in the papers in two educational institutions here.

Those at Normal school have had their credits cancelled and the names of those ready for the university have been given to the registrar and before registration will be given those pupils must obtain from the department a certificate of their academic standing.

COMBINE HARVESTER

Data Gathered by Dept. of Agric With Regards to Combine in West

The use of the combine harvester which both cuts and threshes the grain has increased at a very rapid rate in the Western Provinces and particularly in Saskatchewan. According to officials of the Swift Current, Saskatchewan, Experimental Station, who have been observing harvesting operations with the combine for seven years, there were more than 2300 combines used in Saskatchewan last year. In Alberta more than 1000 were used and in Manitoba a considerably smaller number. The opinion of a large number of the operators of these machines was secured by J. G. Taggart, and J. K. MacKenzie of the Swift Current Station, who have prepared a booklet on their observations that has been issued as Bulletin No. 118 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

The outlay for these machines is stated to represent almost 10,000,000 dollars. Among the 4000 odd machines used almost one-half operated the windrow harvester and pickups, which adds fully one and a half million dollars to the cost of the equipment. Out of 275 combine users questioned, 14 per cent. used the straight combine, 36 per cent. divided their cutting between the straight combine and use of the windrow harvester and pick up, while 19 per cent. used entirely the windrow harvester.

The information gathered from these users indicates that the windrow harvester has undoubtedly advantages in harvesting oats and fall rye, and also when conditions such as late seasons, heavy winds and rolling land are encountered. Some of the operators interviewed held the view that the combine is a profitable investment only when the windrow harvester is used. Others held a different opinion, believing that the use of the straight combine shows a profit, particularly when a large acreage has to be harvested. A small number who had used the combines were giving them up and returning to the use of the binder and separator. These, however, were found to be located on rolling and park land areas where harvesting with the combine was accompanied by some difficulties.

PREVENT FARM FIRE

It is hard to believe that nearly one in every hundred farm buildings in Canada burn each year. In addition there are serious losses of life. The loss is greater because farm buildings are often without water systems or any fire department and usually burn to the ground. The National Fire Association suggests some preventive measures for fire prevention of isolated buildings.

Provide all buildings with proper lightning protection equipment.

Rebuild all defective chimneys and see that all heating apparatus is properly installed. Keep chimneys, flues and stoves clean.

Allow no smoking in barns, or elsewhere where combustible material is stored.

Use fire-retarding roofings.

Thoroughly cure hay, pea vines and other roughage, before these are stacked in barns. Do not allow horse manure to accumulate in large piles in stables or against buildings.

Provide proper facilities for the storage and handling of gasoline and kerosene. Do not use gasoline for home cleaning or kerosene for starting fires.

Make sure all electric wiring and devices are properly installed.

Outsiders are inclined to think that Aimie McPherson is within her rights if, as is claimed, she charged up her huge bills for facial and hair treatments to church expenses. She had herself beautified to attract people to her church. She succeeded, so why were the bills not legitimate church expenses.

How Would You Feel

if we took $2.00 from you for a subscription and then failed to send you the paper?

But There are So Many People who think nothing at all of taking the paper a year or two years, or as long as we will send it to them, without paying for it, and when we ask them for the price of their subscription, then they get mad.

THE ADVOCATE is sold for $2.00 a year IN ADVANCE, the only satisfactory way of keeping up a mailing list.

Look at the Label on your paper, and send in your subscription if it is due.
